

The Living Experiment

Figuring out life one educated guess at a time

And I'm done. I'm over it. Spiro is done for! (-7 days SRS)

I took my last Spiro! Thank god. Those were the worst pills ever. Didn't want to go down and would start dissolving in my mouth and get bitter. It would suck. But it's done! The downside is no more HRT until post SRS. I'm a bit unsure of what to expect from it. We'll see soon enough I suppose. Working on packing stuff (I'll post my list in the next day or two... or on the flight or something... then edit it or do a part 2/followup for what I could've done better/worse) and getting my last load of laundry done before I head out. Tomorrow is the last day of work in the office for a month as well.

All things considered I'm tired. I'm not really concerned like I was. I'm just tired and ready to go. I know the next 24 hours is going to go so quick and while the flights will be long, after landing time will go soooo quick. I'm less than 7 days from going under. It's weird to think about. Really weird. But strangely exciting. The fear and concern of wondering "what if I regret this" is still there to some extent, but I'm a lot more comfortable with the whole thing. I've wrapped stuff up, said my goodbye's to the family before heading out, etc etc. Work stuff is pretty well wrapped up with one minor exception. And I have to get the second Hepatitis vaccine tomorrow.

I haven't heard anything from Sophie (Suporn's admin). Which is surprising as I figured they would send something as a "don't forget to stop HRT" and other basic stuff. But they've been very responsive and helpful thus far. And really I don't know what else they could say there.

I'm packing semi-light. I plan to buy some stuff there with my gf for like sun dresses and underwear stuff. Along with some other things on lists I've found elsewhere (I'll include those along with links and credit when I do my post of what I packed). Time to pass out though...
